Chhaya CDC Celebrates opening of new office in Jackson Heights – offering direct assistance to homeowners at risk of foreclosure, and guidance to potential home buyers in the heart of Queens.

Chhaya CDC, a community based non-profit organization working primarily with South Asians in New York City, is pleased to announce the opening of its new office in Jackson Heights with an “Open House” event scheduled for February 1st, 2008 from 4 - 8 PM.

Community members are invited to join the celebration and sample an array of diverse cuisines while learning about the free and important services that Chhaya offers. This will be an opportunity to meet the Chhaya staff, supporters, board members and representatives from Chhaya’s partner organizations from across the city. Local elected officials are also expected to attend, including Assemblymen Ivan Lafayette and Jose Peralta; Councilmember Helen Sears; V.M. Gandhi, Chairman of Queens Community Board 3; and Shams Tariq, Communications Director of New York State Senator Sabini’s office.

Chhaya CDC is dedicated to addressing housing and community development needs of South Asian and other immigrant groups. It aims to promote access to housing opportunities, public benefits and other social services through its free programs, counseling and educational workshops. Chhaya staff speaks Hindi, Bangla and Urdu.
